ANDREA TORY was born and raised in Metro Detroit and has been in practice for more than a decade. Dr. Tory is a Diplomate of the American Board of Endodontics, meaning she has achieved board certification. Only 22% of Endodontists in the U.S. are board certified as it is a rigorous process requiring years of study and preparation. Dr. Tory completed both her undergraduate and dental degrees at the University of Detroit Mercy. She received her endodontic certificate and master's degree from the University of Louisville School of Dentistry. Dr. Tory is married with two young boys. Like many moms of young children, she doesn't have much free time, but when the opportunity arises, she really enjoys a good nap.

ETHAN KOLDERMAN is a native of Dearborn and a distinguished four-time graduate of the University of Michigan. Over 13 years of rigorous training, he earned his bachelor's degree, Doctorate of Dental Surgery, specialty certificate in endodontics, and Master's degrees in both Endodontics and Public Health. Prior to specializing in endodontics, Dr. Kolderman practiced as a general dentist for several years, during which he contributed to the field as a published author of several research papers and a textbook chapter. As the youngest of three brothers, he carries on a proud legacy as the son of Dr. Tom Kolderman, a well-respected general dentist in the Canton community for many years. Outside of his professional pursuits, Dr. Kolderman enjoys staying active through basketball, golf, and tennis. He also has a passion for cooking and loves to experiment in the kitchen.
